

16 It's not fair — Brendon and his jobs at home

Hi James,

This is Brendon, just to tell you that everything is cool here in Liverpool.

There is just one thing that is not OK. That's all the jobs I have to do at home!

You see, first, I must clean the bathroom. Well, my dad cleans the toilet, that's something. But then I must also take out the rubbish. It's always me. And you know why? Because my little brother is too small. He can't put the rubbish into the big bin in front of our house! Ha, ha. My sister always empties the dishwasher but my parents have to put in the dirty forks, knives and all the rest because my sister doesn't want to touch them. Uhhh ...

Now, sometimes I have to do it. That's not fair, is it? I also have to feed the dog. So, what does my sister do?

Well, she always tidies up her room (What a good girl she is, eh!) and she hoovers the floor. But not in my room!

Why not? Because there are too many things on the floor. That's what she says.

How about you, James? Do you also have to do lots of jobs at home? I don't think you do.

Well then, that's all for now. I'll call you later.

Bye!
