

17 The weather today

Now let's have a quick look at today's and tomorrow's weather. Today, it will be a perfect day for most parts, like England and Wales, with lots of sun and temperatures between 18 and 22 degrees, with the hottest places in the southwest of England. Here you might actually have temperatures hitting 25 degrees. That would be extremely warm for this time of the year.

However, it will be cloudy in Northern Ireland, and Scotland will get some stronger winds today, especially on the east coast, with some rain in the afternoon and temperatures falling to 14 degrees. But don't worry, temperatures will pick up tomorrow and it will be a nice and sunny day for all of us, even for the east of Scotland. So don't forget to go swimming or just enjoy a wonderful day in your garden.