

1 Shopping for Brendon's birthday party

- Brendon: Right then, James. Let's go. There are still a few things I need for my birthday party.
- James: So what do you need, Brendon? Have you got drinks?
- Brendon: Yes, we have got lots of drinks. But I would like to buy some crisps and a cake. And pizza!
- James: So how many pizzas do we need?
- Brendon: There are seven of us, and my little brother. So we need eight pizzas.
- James: What about your family? Don't they like pizza?
- Brendon: Oh yes, they do. But they are not at home.
- James: All right. That's fun. So where do you want to go?
- Brendon: I don't know, let's check on the Internet. Oh look, at Sainsbury's the crisps are only 45p for a big packet. And they have got lots of cake for a special price.
- James: So we can go there. Where is it?
- Brendon: It's just three minutes down the road. And they have got pizzas for only £1.50.
- James: Let me see. Well, they look good to me, but they are very small, aren't they?
- Brendon: You're right, they are. Just think of Tom and Oliver. They are always very hungry ...
- James: We could buy more pizzas ... How about two pizzas per person? So nobody needs to be hungry.
- Brendon: Good idea. Let me see if I have got enough money.
- James: How much have you got?
- Brendon: £35 ... If we buy 16 pizzas for £1.50, that's £24 for the pizzas.
- James: So there is £11 left. That should be OK.
- Brendon: Great. So we can buy the crisps, some cake, and some extra cheese and vegetables to put on our pizzas.
- James: Yummy. I like that. Sounds great! Come on, let's go.
- Brendon: Just wait a minute. What do you think ... We could have some party hats as well?
- James: Party hats ... Why not? They look funny. Well, Sophia doesn't like them. She always says that they look stupid. But I think they look funny. Can we get them at Sainsbury's, too?
- Brendon: I don't know... Let's see. Yep, look here.
- James: They look good to me. Let's get the pink ones for the girls, and the black ones for the boys.
- Brendon: I think Lucy can't stand pink. So maybe we could buy the black and white ones for all of us.
- James: But look, they cost £3.55. That's too much.
- Brendon: Oh yes. You're right. That's a lot. So no hats for the party then.
- James: But lots of pizza! That's fine with me.
