

On the phoneElsa:

Hi Emma, this is Elsa. How are you? What are you doing?

Emma:

I'm trying on my costume for Pete's birthday party. It's on Saturday, February 3rd.

Elsa:

I know, that's next week. You see, I've got an invitation, too. Ok, so what kind of costume have you got?

Emma:

I'm a Supergirl. And my costume is blue, white and red.

Elsa:

Oh, that's great. So, you've got a costume. Well, I haven't. I just don't know what to wear. Have you got an idea?

Emma:

Hmm, let's see. How about a vampire costume?

Elsa:

Sounds good.

Emma:

And you know what, my brother has a vampire costume. He can give it to you, just for the party.

Elsa:

Oh that's really nice, but your brother is eight. I think I'm too big for his costume.

Emma:

You are right. You can't wear Jack's costume. Well, you can go to the shops next to our school and buy a costume.

Elsa:

Yes, I can. But the costumes they have got there are quite expensive. I don't know. Let me see. I think I don't need to buy a costume. You know, I have got a box with all kinds of funny clothes. I can go as a witch, with a big black hat and a black coat. And then I put on some black make-up and the big earrings.

Emma:

No, that doesn't sound so good. Let's try something different. I think you need a real costume. Come on, let's meet at Camden Market and then we look for a cool vampire costume for you. I think there is one shop where costumes are quite cheap. And I know the shop assistant. His name is Mark and he is really nice. I think he can help us find the right costume for you.

Elsa:

That's a great idea. Let's meet at Camden Lock at half past four, after school.
